“ I met Keena way back in the 80’s at Dominos Pizza and we were instant buddies. You couldn’t help but be drawn to her infectious laugh. I left work early every Thursday night and went to her house to watch Knots Landing together. We let years go by without being in touch and changed that over this past year. Rick and I had her over a few times for dinner this past year and we sat for hours talking about our old Dominos days and sports. – She always brought Bob Evans pie for dessert. We vowed not to let so much time go without being in touch. Our hearts are broken.

“ First prayers for the family and friends. I have a great memory of Keena in school we were both in track. She and I both threw shot put and no amount of trying could I beat her she could send that thing sailing and I forever took second. I will cherish those memories of her. God Bless! “ I can't remember the first time I met Keena, but she came to be one of my closest friends during the time we both worked for Domino's back in the mid 80's. After I transferred to Cleveland and eventually purchased a store in Youngstown, we were separated by distance and did not maintain the same contact, but in looking back I can't think of a single bad memory associated with Keena. She was a funny and effervescent person, the world is a sadder place with her passing.

As I think it would not displease Keena for me to tell this story, which I have remembered many times over the years, I recall a story she told me of her having visited her home in Upper Sandusky with another Dominos friend who was using the bathroom to, go shall we say, #2. After they had been in there sometime, Keena yelled into them to tell them to "pinch them off short" or they would stop up the toilet. I have remember that story many times over the years and every time I do I smile and think of Keena, she had a sense of humor and honesty that I appreciated and I feel we shared. I think some people will read that story and be appalled in my thinking of it at the time of her passing, and to them I apologize, but I believe Keena would be pleased to be remembered fondly for her humor and the appreciation of a story well told.
