“ We were neighbors of Lucinda for five years before moving to Jackson Center. Lucinda was one of a kind. She LOVED history and was most proud that she was able to recently have one of her personal belongings (a bracelet she was required to wear in New York City) accepted for display at the Smithsonian Institute. Every Christmas when I returned to see family for Christmas, we exchanged simple gifts and she would show me her prized plants and the "puzzle of the week." She truly enjoyed her dogs over the years, prided herself in having them well trained and spoiled them rotten! Lucinda was an encyclopedia of knowledge, loved eating cherry stollen, and always had a new story to tell every time I visited with her. Thank you Cindy for sharing your love and stories with our family. You will be truly missed!
