“ My brother and I called her Gram Cracker Crunch (Mom lovingly blames my dad Martin for this). Whenever we went to her house, she always had a bowl of candy for us kids, and it was always fun to see what she put in it! I remember everyone gathering for card games and teaching me how to play them as well. I believe Pay Me was the family favorite! She had a butterfly garden right out front that even as a kid I remember thinking was beautiful, and the old apple tree at the back. I remember her homemade applesauce and chocolate pudding, and to this day I miss it! Her birthday was this week, and she's been on my mind. Now that I'm older, I wish I had been able to spend more quality time with her and learn from her. Her memory is full of the warmth of what family is meant to be. - Alice
